He came from the future.

I didn't believe him at first, when he said he was a time traveller. I certainly didn't believe him when he said that we were together in the future, and he'd come back in time to make sure things happened the way they were supposed to. But things turned out better than I could ever have imagined, and while I'm waiting for him to get back from the past, what better way to kill time than looking through my old diaries, and remembering what he's doing now?

A story about an unconventional romance, where everything must happen as it was predetermined. Also, a bonus story exploring morality in a world where genetic engineering can even choose the kind of person you will become.
